

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF MARYLAND, NORTHERN DIVISION

UNITED STATES,

Plaintiff,

v.

JAMAL STEWART,

Defendant.

CRIMINAL NO.: WDQ-08-0415

MEMORANDUM OPINION

Jamal Stewart pled guilty to conspiracy to distribute, and possess with intent to distribute, fifty grams or more of cocaine base (crack cocaine) and one kilogram or more of heroin. Pending is Stewart's motion to reduce his sentence based on the reduced Sentencing Guidelines for crack cocaine offenses. No hearing is necessary. Local Rule 105.6 (D. Md. 2014). For the following reasons, Stewart's motion will be denied.

I. Background

On May 15, 2009, Stewart pled guilty to conspiracy to distribute, and possess with intent to distribute, fifty grams or more of crack cocaine and one kilogram or more of heroin, in violation of 21 U.S.C. § 846. ECF Nos. 150, 151 ("Plea Agreement"). The plea was entered into under Fed. R. Crim. P. 11(c)(1)(C) (a "C plea"). Id. ¶ 6(d). In the Plea Agreement, Stewart agreed that the Court would determine a Guidelines sentencing range and would "take into account the advisory guidelines range in establishing a reasonable sentence." Id. ¶ 5. The parties stipulated that because the conspiracy involved 1.5 to 4.5 kilograms of crack cocaine, Stewart's base offense level was 36 under U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1(a)(3) and (c)(2); and because the conspiracy involved at least one kilogram of heroin, the base offense level for heroin was 32. Id. ¶ 6(b). However, because Stewart was a "career offender" under U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1, his actual base offense level was 37. Id. Accordingly, Stewart's criminal history category was VI. Id. ¶ 7. With a three-level reduction for acceptance of responsibility and timely notification of his intention to plead guilty, Stewart's final offense level was 34, which, with his criminal history category, yielded a Guidelines sentencing range of 262 to 327 months. Id. ¶¶ 6(c), 7. The parties stipulated to a sentence within the range of 262 to 292 months. Id. ¶ 6(d). The Court sentenced Stewart to 262 months imprisonment. ECF No. 199.

Effective November 1, 2011, Sentencing Commission Amendment 750 retroactively changed the Guidelines for crack cocaine offenses. See U.S.S.G., App. C, Amend. 750 (2012); see also U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1(c) (2012). On March 13, 2014, the Federal Public Defender moved for a reduction in Stewart's sentence under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) based on Amendment 750. ECF No.

338 ("Mot.")<sup>1</sup> On June 2, 2014, the government opposed the motion. ECF No. 344 ("Opp."). On June 9, 2014, Stewart replied ("Reply"). Effective November 1, 2014, Sentencing Commission Amendment 782 retroactively changed the Guidelines for drug offenses. See U.S.S.G. Supp. App. C, Amend. 782 (2014); see also U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1(c) (2014).<sup>2</sup>

II. Analysis

Stewart seeks a reduction under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2). Mot. at 1. Section 3582(c)(2) states that a defendant "sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission" may seek a reduction in sentence, "if such a reduction is consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission." 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2); see also U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10(a)(1)(2014). In resentencing, the court "shall substitute the amended Guidelines range for the initial range, and shall leave all other guideline application decisions unaffected." Dillon v. United States, 560 U.S. 817, 821, 130 S. Ct. 2683, 177 L.Ed.2d 271 (2010) (quoting U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10(b)(1)). A reduction is inconsistent with the applicable policy statement if the amendment "does not have the effect of lowering the defendant's applicable guideline range." U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10(a)(2)(B). The Guidelines define "applicable guideline range" as "the guideline range that . . . is determined before consideration of any departure provision in the Guidelines Manual or any variance." U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10, cmt. n.1(A).

<sup>1</sup> Stewart's pro se motions for a reduced sentence under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) and Amendment 750, ECF No. 312, and to appoint counsel, ECF No. 321, will be denied as moot.

<sup>2</sup> Amendment 782 is broader than Amendment 750, "lowering the base offense level for most drug quantity offenses under [U.S.S.G.] § 2D1.1" United States v. Thomas, 775 F.3d 982, 982-83 (8th Cir. 2014). The Commission made Amendment 782 retroactive effective November 1, 2015. See U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10(d), (e)(1) ("The court shall not order a reduced term of imprisonment based on Amendment 782 unless the effective date of the court's order is November 1, 2015, or later.").

The government relies on Freeman v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 2685, 180 L.Ed.2d 519 (2011), and United States v. Frazier, 531 F. App'x 308, 309 (4th Cir. 2013) (unpublished), to argue that Stewart is ineligible for relief. Opp. at 1-2. Stewart argues that neither case forecloses relief. Reply at 1-3.

In Freeman, the Supreme Court, in a divided opinion, addressed retroactive Sentencing Guidelines under § 3582(c)(2) in the context of a C plea. Although Justice Kennedy wrote for the plurality, the courts of appeal have read Justice Sotomayor's opinion, the narrowest ground of those justices concurring in the judgment, as controlling.<sup>3</sup> In Freeman, Justice

<sup>3</sup> See, e.g., United States v. Austin, 676 F.3d 924, 926 (9th Cir. 2012); United States v. Thompson, 682 F.3d 285, 289-90 (3d Cir. 2012); United States v. Rivera-Martinez, 665 F.3d 344, 348 (1st Cir. 2011); United States v. Brown, 653 F.3d 337, 340 & n. 1 (4th Cir. 2011); see also Marks v. United States, 430 U.S. 188, 193-94, 97 S. Ct. 990, 51 L.Ed.2d 260 (1977) (test for deciding Sotomayor stated that a "term of imprisonment ... pursuant to [a C plea] is 'based on' the agreement itself, not on the judge's calculation of the Sentencing Guidelines" for purposes of a reduction under § 3582(c)(2). Freeman, 131 S. Ct. at 2695 (Sotomayor, J., concurring in the judgment).

However, Justice Sotomayor recognized two instances when a defendant who enters a C plea may be able to show that his sentence had been "based on a [Guidelines] sentencing range" under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2). First, when the plea agreement "call[s] for the defendant to be sentenced within a particular Guidelines sentencing range," and the district court accepts the plea, "there can be no doubt that the term of imprisonment the court imposes is 'based on' the agreed-upon sentencing range within the meaning of § 3582(c)(2)." Id. at 2697. Second, when the plea agreement "provide[s] for a specific term of imprisonment . . . but also make[s] clear that the basis for the specified term is a Guidelines sentencing range applicable to the offense to which the defendant pleaded guilty," and the "sentencing range is evident from the agreement itself," then controlling opinion). But see United States v. Epps, 707 F.3d 337, 350 (D.C. Cir. 2013) (no controlling opinion in Freeman).

"the term of imprisonment imposed by the court in accordance with that agreement is 'based on' that range." Id. at 2697-98.<sup>4</sup>

In Frazier, the petitioner had argued that Justice Sotomayor's second exception applied. 531 F. App'x at 310. The Fourth Circuit disagreed; although the petitioner's plea agreement had provided for a specific term of imprisonment, it had not made "clear that the specified term is a Guidelines sentencing range applicable to the sentence of conviction," and no Guideline range had been "evident from the agreement itself." Id. (noting that petitioner's plea agreement had "disclaimed any <sup>4</sup> In Freeman, pursuant to a plea agreement under which the petitioner pled guilty to drug and firearms offenses, the district court sentenced the petitioner to 106 months imprisonment. 131 S. Ct. at 2699. The 106 month sentence included a 60 month mandatory minimum for possessing a firearm in furtherance of a drug trafficking crime under 18 U.S.C. § 924(c)(1)(A). Id. In determining the reason for the remaining 46 months, Justice Sotomayor noted that the plea agreement set the petitioner's offense level at 19, which had been "determined by the quantity of drugs and his acceptance of responsibility," and his anticipated criminal history category of IV. Id. (emphasis added). The petitioner's offense level and criminal history category resulted in a guidelines range of 46 to 57 months; thus, the petitioner had been sentenced at the low end of the guidelines range in conjunction with the 60 month mandatory minimum. Id. at 2699-700. Accordingly, Justice Sotomayor concluded that that the petitioner's prison term had been "based on" a Guidelines range under 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2). Id. at 2700. Justice Sotomayor further concluded that the Guidelines range used to establish the petitioner's sentence had been lowered by Amendment 706, which amended the guidelines applicable to crack cocaine offenses. Id. at 2700; see also U.S.S.G. Supp. App. C, Amend. 706 (amending U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1(c) effective November 1, 2007). For those reasons, the petitioner was entitled to a reduced sentence. Freeman, 131 S. Ct. at 2700.

agreement as to his criminal history or criminal history category and gave no Guidelines sentencing range." (internal quotation marks omitted).

Stewart argues that Frazier is distinguishable because, here, "the [Plea Agreement] plainly spells the expected guideline range that would apply to [Stewart] and how it was calculated." Reply at 2. Stewart further argues that his case is within Justice Sotomayor's first exception. Id. at 2.

Here, the parties stipulated to a sentence between 262 and 327 months and agreed that the Court would take into account the Sentencing Guidelines when determining Stewart's sentence. Plea Agreement ¶¶ 5, 6(d). Stewart's Plea Agreement further stated that Stewart was a career offender under U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1(b), had a base offense level of 37 and a criminal history category of VI, and was eligible for a three-level downward departure; thus, his total offense level was 34. Id. ¶¶ 5-7. According to Stewart, the 262 to 327 month Guidelines range corresponded to an offense level of 34 and criminal history category of VI. Reply at 4.<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> Stewart further asserts that the range "constituted a [three]-level downward variance from [his] applicable guideline range of 360 months to life, which was calculated using a final offense level [of] 37 and criminal history category [of] VI." Id. (citing Presentence Report ("PSR") ¶¶ 21, 36, 47).

The PSR made the following calculations as to Stewart's offense level: (a) base offense level under U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1 (38); (b)

The Court assumes, without deciding, that the Plea Agreement accepted by the Court "call[s] for [Stewart] to be sentenced within a particular Guidelines sentencing range." See Freeman, 131 S. Ct. at 2697; cf. United States v. Sylvester, 510 F. App'x 137, 142 (3d Cir. 2013) (unpublished) (Freeman exception not met when agreement called for a sentence based on the applicable statutory maximum). However, Stewart is not entitled to a sentence reduction because he has not demonstrated that his "sentencing range . . . has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission" as required by 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2). Stewart's Guidelines range was based on his career offender designation under U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1. See Plea Agreement ¶ 7; cf. Freeman, 131 S. Ct. at 2700 (petitioner's Guidelines specific offense characteristics (-2); (c) role in the offense (+4); (d) acceptance of responsibility (-3); and (e) total offense level under U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1 with adjustments (37). PSR ¶¶ 14-21. The PSR then calculated Stewart's offense level as a career offender: (a) base offense level (37); (b) acceptance of responsibility (-3); and (c) total offense level under U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1 (34). Id. ¶¶ 22-24. The PSR stated that Stewart's total offense level should be calculated under U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1 because it resulted in a higher total offense level. Id. ¶ 25. An offense level of 37 and a criminal history category of VI resulted in a Guidelines range of 360 months to life. Id. ¶ 47. However, the Plea Agreement did not rely on the PSR's U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1 calculations when it stated Stewart's total offense level; instead, it relied on Stewart's career offender designation and corresponding offense level. Plea Agreement ¶¶ 6(b), 7. Additionally, when determining whether a sentence meets the Freeman exception, the Court must "necessarily look to the agreement itself." Freeman, 131 S.Ct. at 2698 n. 2 (Sotomayor, J., concurring in judgment).

sentencing range based on drug quantity). Neither Amendment 750--nor the later Amendment 782--amended U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1. See U.S.S.G., App. C, Amend. 750 (2012); U.S.S.G. Supp. App. C, Amend. 782 (2014).<sup>6</sup> Further, there is no evidence that this Court relied on the crack cocaine Guideline when it calculated the extent of Stewart's departure. United States v. Ervin, 533 F. App'x 189, 190 (4th Cir. 2013) (unpublished) (affirming denial of § 3582(c)(2) motion when petitioner failed to demonstrate reliance on crack cocaine Guidelines in calculating departures; district court had reduced petitioner's offense level because of substantial assistance but did not reduce his criminal history category); United States v. Blakeney, 540 F. App'x 219 (4th Cir. 2013) (unpublished) (same).<sup>7</sup> Accordingly, Stewart's motion will be denied. See id.; United States v. Nichols, No. 15-6576, 2015 WL 4538933, at *1 (4th Cir. July 28,

<sup>7</sup> Cf. United States v. Munn, 595 F.3d 183 (4th Cir. 2010) (although petitioner was a career offender, § 3582(c)(2) reduction was merited because district court had relied on the crack cocaine Guidelines in calculating his departure). But see United States v. Moton, 531 F. App'x 377, 378 (4th Cir. 2013) (unpublished) (recognizing Munn's abrogation by U.S.S.G. App. C, Amend. 759 (2011)); United States v. Quarles, 889 F. ### III. Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, Stewart's motion will be denied.

<sup>8</sup> Stewart further argues that this Court "routinely grant[s] relief under § 3582(c)(2) to defendants who entered a [C plea]." Reply at 3 (citing, inter alia, United States v. Candis Unita Mack, Crim. Case No. WDQ-08-0348), United States v. Colvin, Crim. Case No. WDQ-01-0607). Mack, however, is distinguishable; the parties had stipulated to a base offense level of 32 pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1(c)(4). Mack, Crim. Case No. WDQ-01-0607, ECF No. 82 ¶ 6(a). In Colvin, the defendant was classified as a career offender under U.S.S.G. § 4B1.1; however, the parties agreed to a four-level reduction under U.S.S.G. §§ 3E1.1 and 4A1.3 because of his acceptance of responsibility and his criminal history score overrepresented the seriousness of his criminal history. Crim. Case No. WDQ-01-0607, ECF No. 37 at 1 n.2. Thus, his sentence had been "based on (at least in part) . . . U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1." Id. at 3 (internal quotation marks omitted). Following the U.S. Supreme Court's decision in Freeman, the government agreed to the sentence reduction. Colvin, Crim. Case No. WDQ-01-0607, ECF No. 40. Unlike Colvin, here, as noted above, there is no indication that Stewart's sentence was based upon U.S.S.G. § 2D1.1. Plea Agreement ¶ 7; Freeman, 131 S. Ct. at 2697 (Sotomayor, J., concurring in the judgment) ("The term of imprisonment imposed by the district court, . . . is not 'based on' . . . background negotiations; instead . . . it is based on the binding agreement produced by those negotiations.") (internal citations omitted). Thus, Stewart is not entitled to relief.
